Motto.—Virtus tutissima cassis.

Creagh, of Bally-Andrew, co. Cork.

THIS very ancient family claims to be a branch of the "Hy Niall" Race, derived from Eogan, son of Niall of the Nine Hostages, from whom sprang many illustrious families of the ancient Irish, amongst others that of "O'NIAL," always invested with the Sovereignty of Tyrone, and sometimes with that of all Ireland. Even so lately as the reign of Elizabeth, O'Nial was obeyed as monarch by his own Sept. Collateral with the family of "the O'Nial, of Ulster, chief of Tyrone" was "O'Craoibhe," "Creavh," or Creagh, as it has been written for centuries. Some writers and the tradition in the family thus account for the change of name from O'Nial to Creagh; "one of the Princes of the Hy Niall Dynasty, led his clan from Ulster, to the assistance of Limerick against the Danes, and, they being expelled therefrom through his timely aid, the citizens placed green boughs in the head stalls of their deliverer's horses, whence the chief was named "O'Nial na Creavh," signifying "O'Nial of the Green Branch." In commemoration of this event, the crest of the family has since been, "the head of a war-horse, bearing a laurel branch in the head stall of his bridle." We find the family settled in Limerick, and its neighbourhood in the beginning of the 13th century, and the present Mr. Creagh possesses property in that city, part of the estates of "O'Nial of the Branches," granted to him by the grateful citizens, which was never forfeited, paying neither quit or crown rent, his title being antiquity of possession. (See BURKE's Landed Gentry, Supplement, for detailed pedigree.)

The late Rev. JOHN BAGWELL CREAGH, of Bally-Andrew, co. Cork, Vicar of Carrig, and Rector of Rincurran, second son of Arthur Gethin Creagh, Esq. of Laurentinum, by Isabella his wife, dau. of William Bagwell, Esq. M.P. for Clonmel, m. in 1797 Gertrude, dau. of John Miller, Esq. of Toonaghmore, co. Clare, and by her (who d. 11 March 1844) had issue.

Colonel Taylor proceeded, in 1811, to join the 22nd Light Dragoons in the East Indies, where he served until their return to Europe and disbandment, 25 Oct. 1820. He was in the field in 1815 and 1816, and during the whole of the Mahratta war in 1817, 1818, 1819. The published official records shew that his conduct was conspicuous in the brigade cavalry actions of Bucktowlic and of Nagnore (1817), and of Ashta (20 Feb. 1818), when he incurred, as Brigade-Major, the responsibility of countermanding the retreat, and of ordering measures which saved the brigade, and terminated in the entire defeat of the Peshwa, the death of the gallant Gokiah, and the rescue of the Rajah of Sattarah and his family, the most influential events in terminating this war. At the siege of Copaul-droog, he commanded a battery; at the storm (13 May, 1819), he blew open the first gate with a galloper-gun, of the 22nd Dragoons, and heading the forlorn hope, he stormed in succession the five distinct circles of fortification, every officer and man of his party being either killed or wounded. He received at the summit of that strong hill fort, at the moment of success in its capture, one bullet through his lungs and body, which killed the grenadier behind him, and another, from which he was not relieved till 1841. He was specially recommended for favourable consideration for his services by the Governor-General of India. In 1823 and 1824 he was employed in the Cape Cavalry against the Caffres; in 1826, as Major of the 95th regiment at Malta; in 1827 he was ordered home to the command of the dépôt, then in a state of mutiny, which he speedily quelled, but was shot three times by the mutineers. For this service he received the expression of his Majesty's approbation. In 1833 and 1834 he was employed in command of the dépôt of the 61st regiment.

Bonar, of Bonare, Keltie, Kilgraston, and Kimmerghame.

JAMES BONAR, Esq. of Kimmerghame, co. Berwick, and Warriston, in Mid-Lothian, Chief of the name, heir male and representative in the direct line of the ancient family of BONARE, of that Ilk, Barons of Keltie, bears a shield quarterly, 1st and 4th, BONARE quarterly; 2nd, OLIPHANT, quartering the ROYAL ENSIGNS of Scotland, as representative of the marriage of Sir NINIAN BONAR, of Keltie Castle, who fell at Flodden, with Margaret only dau. and heir of JOHN OLIPHANT of Dron, the fifth in descent from Sir Walter Oliphant, of Gask, and the Lady Elizabeth, his wife, dau. and heiress of ROBERT I. King of Scotland; and 3d, GRAHAM, in right of his descent from JOHN BONAR, of Kilgraston, and Agnes, his wife, dau. and eventual heiress of LAURENCE GRAHAM, of Callander, sprung from George Graham, of Callander, second son of William Lord Graham, by the Lady Anne Douglas, his wife, dau. of George, fourth Earl of Angus, and grand-niece of King JAMES I.

The ancient family of Bonar, or Bonare, formerly numerous, and divided into several lines, of which the principal were the Barons of Keltie, the Barons of Rossie, the Barons of Bairnbuddy and the Lairds of Kilgraston, took its origin in the province of Anjou in France, where its early ancestors held the honourable and knightly office of "Vidame or Avoyer" to the Abbey of St. Blaise, and became established in Scotland apparently in the thirteenth century. In the land of their adoption, the Bonares preserved the same distinguished place they had held in the land of their extraction, and from their new country, several of their divergent branches migrated to various parts of the continent of Europe, into Flanders, Poland and Sweden, in the Nobiliaires and Armoriaux of which kingdoms their name is recorded as holding rank among the nobility of the land. Of all these offshoots, the most eminent was the Polish branch, which in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries gave a Prime Minister, a High Chancellor, and a Premier Lay Senator to the Crown, and was invested with the title of Starost, or Earl, and of Baron of the Holy Roman Empire. Okolski (Nob. Gent. Pol. Sarm.) gives a curious and interesting account of the honourable augmentation which was granted the Flemish line of Bonare by the King of France, in commemoration of a brilliant victory achieved over the English by "Messire Jehan de Bonare, Roth Magister in the armies of France in the fourteenth century:" and Morèry in his "Grand Dictionnaire Historique," thus refers to the family: "Bonar, famille noble en Ecosse, dont plusieurs branches se sont établies en Flandres, en Suède, en Pologne et en autres pays de l'Europe," &c. The civil and religious wars and foreign invasions have destroyed the greater part of the earlier archives of the Scottish families, but in this particular instance, the frequent and continued mention made of the Bonares in the records of the Great Seal of Scotland, in the Register of the Privy Seal, and in other public records, enables them to substantiate their filiation without interruption. Their earliest ancestor on record in North Britain was SIR WILLIAM DE BONARE, Baron of Bonare, who held the office of CASTEL-

LAN OF SENESCHAL of the Royal Castle or Fortalice of Kyngshorne, on the coast of Fife, and went to the 6th crusade with other Scottish Knights who joined the Banner of St. Louis. His grandson Sir WILLIAM DE BONARE, of that Ilk, who succeeded his father Sir William, as Royal Seneschal of Kyngshorne, fell at Bannockburn, leaving a son Sir WILLIAM BONARE, Royal Seneschal of Kyngshorne, who was killed at the Battle of Durham in 1346. His widow is mentioned in the Chamberlain's Rolls, in which the Castellán is styled not Seneschal, but "Constabularius de Kyngshorne qui mortuus est sub vexillo Domini nostri Regis." This lady was Margaret Wemyss, of the family of that Ilk, and by her the Castellán had a son and heir Sir JOHN DE BONARE, of that Ilk, living in 1380, who left by Anne his wife, of the Ramsays of Dalhousie, three sons, WILLIAM, of Keltie, his heir, JAMES, founder of the line of the BARONS of ROSSIE (recorded by Sir David Lyndesay of the Mount, Lyon King of Arms) whose descendant eventually passed over to Sweden during the thirty years' war, (Mushardi Theat. Nob. Brem.) and JOHN, of Friartoun, founder of that line. The eldest son Sir WILLIAM DE BONARE, of that Ilk, Chief of the name, is the first of the family whom we find designated as feudal LORD OF KELTIE in Perthshire, which became eventually the Chief Barony of the Bonares, and was held in capite, immediately from the Crown of Scotland "in liberâ baroniâ." By his wife Christian Balfour, of the Burleigh family, Sir William had, with two daughters, three sons, I. JOHN, his heir; II. WILLIAM, of Keltie, of whom presently; III. ROBERT, of Strathy Bonar; and IV. JAMES, ancestor of the BONARS of Kilgraston, whose eventual heiress EUPHEMIA BONAR, Lady of Kilgraston, m. her kinsman, JOHN BONAR, of Boghall and Trevor. The eldest son, Sir JOHN DE BONARE, Chief of the name, is mentioned by Buchanan as one of the witnesses to the act of Succession of the Crown of Scotland in 1477: his son by Margaret Seton, his wife, NINIAN d. in infancy, vita patris. Sir John de Bonare's next brother WILLIAM BONAR, of Keltie, was at Arbroath, in 1445: he m. and left three sons, NINIAN his heir, DAVID founder of the lines of Lunquhat and Gregson, and JOHN, Abbot of Balmernoch. The eldest son, Sir NINIAN BONAR, of Keltie, who was slain, together with five kinsmen, gentlemen of his name, at Flodden, left by the Lady Margaret, his wife, dau. of Sir John Oliphant of Dron (derived from the marriage of Sir Walter Oliphant and the Princess ELIZABETH) three sons, of whom the eldest Sir WALTER BONAR, of Keltie, received a charter from King JAMES V. given under the Great Seal of Scotland, declaring with regard to the nature of the tenure of the family Chief Barony of Keltie, "that said Barony of Keltie was holden immediately of the Crown of Scotland." He m. Beatrix Hay, and had two sons—I. WILLIAM, Master of Keltie, whose line ended with WILLIAM, 9th Baron of Keltie, who d. in 1691, and II. JOHN, of Kinelady and Trevor, founder of the line of Trevor and Boghall: his eldest son, JAMES BONAR, of Trevor and Boghall, m. EUPHEMIA BONAR, Lady of Kilgraston, dau. and heir of John Bonar of Kilgraston, and was great-grandfather of JOHN BONAR, V. of Kilgraston (son of John Bonar, of Kilgraston by AGNES, his wife, dau. and heir of LAWRENCE GRAHAM, of Callander) who became Chief of the name at the decease of William, 9th Baron of Keltie. His son and heir JOHN BONAR, VI. of Kilgraston, m. Grisel, dau. of Gilbert Bennet, of Beath, and left two sons, JOHN, his heir; and ANDREW, ancestor of the BONARS of CAMDEN, in Kent. The elder son JOHN BONAR, born at Torphichen in 1696, was Minister of Fellar in Zetland. He m. Jean dau. of Smythe of Monypenny, and was s. by his son, JOHN BONAR, of Kilgraston, Minister of Perth, b. in 1722, who m. Christian Currier, and had with other issue, a son ANDREW BONAR, of Kimmerghame, co. Berwick and Warriston, in Mid Lothian, b. in 1748, who d. in 1825, leaving by Anne Carr, his wife, four sons: I. JOHN, of Kimmerghame, who d. unm. in 1834; II. JAMES, now of Kimmerghame, present chief of this ancient family, who m. Mary, dau. of Sir Patrick Murray, 7th Bart of Ochtertyre: III. William, who m. in 1831, Lillias, dau. of the late Alexander Cuninghame, Esq. of Craigends, and has a dau. Margaret, IV. Andrew, who m. Marcelly, dau. of Macdonell, of Glengarry, and has two sons and two daughters. (For full and detailed particulars of the descent in all its branches, Scottish and Foreign, see BURKE'S Dictionary of the Landed Gentry.)

WYON MARYON, the descendant of a noble line in Brittany,* and a companion of William the Conqueror, obtained from his Royal Master a grant of the extensive township of Stansfeld, in the co. of York, and assuming therefrom his surname, was founder of this family, which has continued through an uninterrupted male course by intermarriages with many of the most ancient houses of that county, down to the present period, becoming connected in some instances with the Saviles ancestors of the Earls of Scarborough and Mexborough, and Marquesses of Halifax; that model of an English gentleman, the celebrated John Evelyn, derived through his mother from the Stansfelds. The present representatives of the three remaining branches are JOSIAS STANSFELD, Esq. of New Cross, Surrey, a magistrate for that county, WILLIAM ROOKES CROMPTON STANSFELD, Esq. of Esholt Hall, Yorkshire, M.P., and THOMAS WOLRICH STANSFELD, Esq. of Burley Wood, near Leeds, now residing in the island of Jersey. The last named gentleman, who was formerly Lieut. Col. of the Leeds Local Militia, represents the youngest branch of the family, as well as junior ones of those of Wolrich and Hatton.

The descent of Wolrich is traced by a direct male succession down to his late mother, the wife of David Stansfeld, Esq. of Leeds, and Armley House the last of her line, from Ordgar, Earl of Devonshire and Cornwall, (whose dau. Elfrida was the Queen of Edgar,) through Edulph, his son and heir, who m. Elfswina, only child and heiress of Ethelred Duke of Mercia, by Ethelfleda, dau. of Alfred the Great. Her great-grandson Godwin, son of

* The noble descent and ancient arms of the family of Maryon, namely "argent three fleurs-de-lis gules," were confirmed by the Chamber of general reform of the nobility of France, instituted by command of Lewis XIV. to Claude Marion Seigneur de Kerhouel, at Quimper, September 4th, 1669. The name of Kyriell, appears on the Roll of Battle Abbey, as that of one of the conquerors of Hastings. Robert Duke of Normandy, the Conqueror's father, in order to keep in check the people of the Pays de Dol, built in the year 1030, a castle at Cazel or Cheruel, upon the Coesnon, a river which then divided the provinces of Normandy and Brittany. This place gave the name to a family which became highly distinguished in succeeding generations on each side of the channel, in its different branches.

The family of which we are now treating, that of Maryon, Lord of Stansfeld, was, if not in the main line, one of the younger English branches. Another and a more distinguished one retained the Seignorial name of Kyriel, and in the course of its descent, intermarried with the Norman and English noble families of Crèvecoeur, Neville, Aubreville, Clifford and Pêche, acquiring itself a barony, now dormant, namely that of de Crioles, its last male representative being Sir Thomas Kyriel, K.G. who left two coheirresses, his daus. in 1460.

The family in the English as well as French descents takes a high place in the naval and military annals of the respective countries. Kyriell, probably the common ancestor, appears on the roll of Battle Abbey, as having fought at the battle of Hastings. Hue Kyriel was admiral of the French, Nicholas of the English fleet, in the 14th century. Yvon Cheruel, the brother in arms of Bertrand du Guesclin, took a prominent part as Champion of Brittany, in the celebrated combat anno 1351, between thirty English and thirty Breton knights, in which the former were vanquished, Sir Hugh Calverley and Sir John Russel, contending on the opposite side, and Sir Thomas Kyriel, K.G., already mentioned, after having received the thanks of his Sovereign for his eminent services in France, where he commanded the English army, supported the Yorkist party at the second battle of St. Albans, immediately after which he was beheaded by order of Queen Margaret.

The only family of distinction bearing similar name and arms now existing in this country, apparently an offshoot from the baronial branch, is that of Kyrle, of Much-Marcle, co. Hereford, represented by the Rev. William Money-Kyrle, M.A. one of whose collateral ancestors forms by no means the least truly illustrious feature in this sketch, namely John Kyrle, who has already acquired from Pope as "the Man of Ross," a claim to immortality which the "boast of Heraldry" could not have achieved for him.

Leofwinc, Earl of Mercia, m. Golda dau. of Richard II., the Good, Duke of Normandy, by Estritha, dau. of Sweyn, King of England and Denmark, and sister of Canute the Great, which lady m. secondly Earl Ulpho, and had by him another Sweyn, King of Denmark. Golda was first cousin to Edward the Confessor, her eldest son Wolfric, from whom the family now treated of derives its name and descent, standing in the same relation to the Conqueror. Golda was by Godwin, lineally or through representative heiresses, the ancestress of some of the highest and most ancient families of the British Peerage of the present period, and by a second marriage the mother of Reginald Baliol, from whom descended the Baliols, Kings of Scotland. Subsequently, the Huntingdonshire Wolriches' were enabled by an intermarriage with a dau. of Sir Richard Wingfield, K.G. of Kimbolton Castle, to trace their descent through the Plantagenets, to the other Anglo Norman Kings and Dukes of Normandy, and by this connexion, became nearly allied in blood to Sir Philip and Algernon Sydney, and Lady Jane Grey.

The family of Hatton is by a remarkable coincidence lineally derived from Wolfaith or Ulvict, who m. another dau. of Godwin and Golda above mentioned—the branch which became connected with the Wolriches terminating in Sir Robert Hatton, M.P., whose daughter and heiress m. Sir Toby Wolrich, Knt., nephew by marriage of Toby Matthew, Archbishop of York. Sir Robert was the brother of Sir Charles Hatton, K.B., whose son Lord Hatton, was the ancestor through an heiress of George Finch Hatton, Earl of Winchilsea, the present representative of that branch of this family.

The pedigrees of Stansfeld and Wolrich, may be found, traced step by step, in BURKE's Landed Gentry, that of the Hattons, in the Peerage.

Mr. Stansfeld, the proprietor of Burley Wood, who represents a junior branch of these families, is m. to Anne, eldest dau. of the late Rawdon Briggs, Esq. of Halifax, and sister of Rawdon Briggs, Esq. formerly M.P. for that borough, and has issue. Of his surviving brothers, James Stansfeld, Esq. of Green Bank, near Halifax, a judge of the County Courts, m. Emma, dau. of the Rev. John Ralph, and has issue; Hatton Hamer Stansfeld, Esq. of St. Anne's Hill, Burley, m. Elizabeth Anne, dau. of Woodhouse Crompton, Esq. and has issue, and Hamer Stansfeld, Esq. of Headingley Lodge, Leeds, a magistrate for the W. R. of the co. of York, is unmarried. (For a more detailed account of these as well as of other members of the family, see BURKE's Landed Gentry.)

SAMUEL HUGHES, ESQ.

CORRANBROOK, CO. CARMARTHEN. COL. LIC. & C.B.

Bruce-Dundas, of Blair Castle, co. Perth.

RICHARD LESLIE BRUCE DUNDAS, Esq. of Blair Castle, a Field Officer in the Army, 5th in descent from William Dundas, of Kincavel, second son of Sir Walter Dundas, of Dundas, Chief of that distinguished Name, bears a shield of many quarterings, as representative of the great and illustrious houses of ELPHINSTON, of Calder Hall, BRUCE, of Airth, and LESLIE, LORD LINDORES.

The ELPHINSTONS of Calder Hall were a branch of the ennobled house of Elphinston, springing from William Elphinston, youngest son of Alexander, 2d Lord: they intermarried with many of the first families in North Britain, and with heiresses of the HENDERSONS of Chester, the LAUDERS of Hatton, and the BRUCES of Airth.

The BRUCES of Airth, who claimed to be the senior line of the illustrious house of the "Bruce, of Bannockburn," acquired their estate of Airth, by the marriage of Sir Edward Bruce with the eldest daughter and coheir of Sir WILLIAM AIRTH of Airth, a potent knight of the period in which he lived, and were of great note and power in their time.

The LESLIES, LORDS LINDORES, were a scion of the Noble House of Rothes, and obtained their peerage under a Royal Charter, extending the succession, "Patricio Leslie, Domino de Lindores" and his heirs male, and assigns whatsoever. This limitation, it is supposed, opens the inheritance to female as well as male descendants, and if it do, the barony now vests in the present Major Dundas's mother, ELIZABETH, only child and heir of CAPTAIN JAMES DRUMMOND SPITAL, younger of Leuquhat, co. Fife, Laird of Blair Logie, whose mother the Hon. ELIZABETH LESLIE, was elder sister of Alexander, Lord Lindores.

Arms.—Quarterly. I. DUNDAS, of Blair Castle. II. ELPHINSTON, of Calder Hall. III. AIRTH, of Airth. IV. HENDERSON, of Chester. V. LAUDER, of Hatton. VI. BRUCE, of Airth. VII. AIRTH, of Airth. VIII. VANBECK, of Holland. IX. SPITAL, of Leuquhat. X. DRUMMOND, of Megginch. XI. LESLIE and ABERNETHY, quarterly with an escutcheon of pretence, for the title of LINDORES. XII. MORE, of Taces.

Motto.—Virtus secunda sequetur.

Hughes, of Corranbrook, co. Carmarthen.

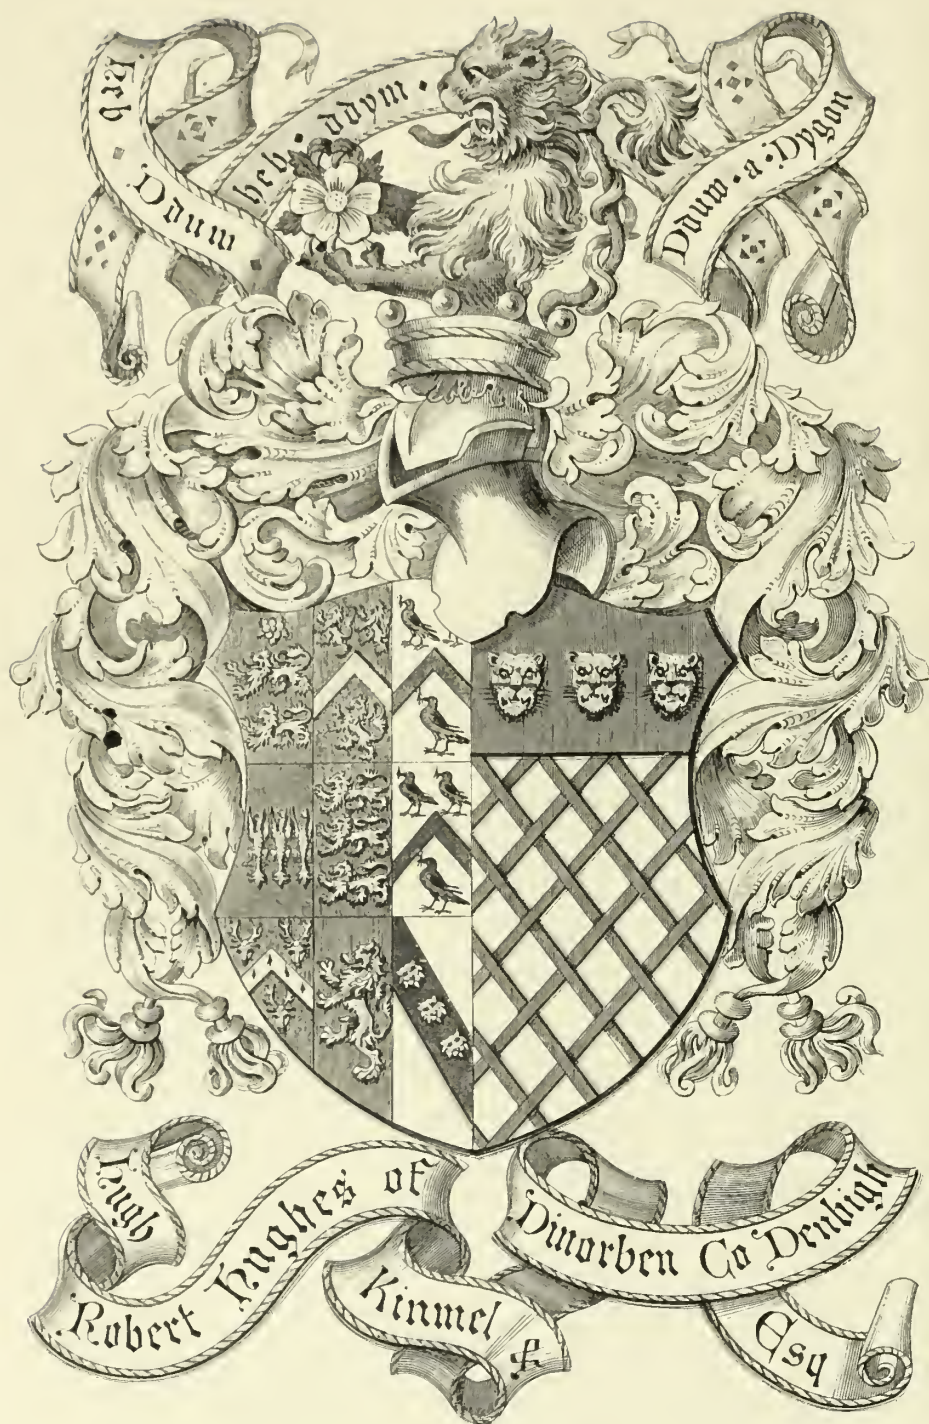

SAMUEL HUGHES, Esq. of Corranbrook, Colonel in the East India Company's Service, and a Companion of the Bath, at present commanding the Northern Division in India with the rank of Brigadier General, descends from the ancient house of Hughes, of Archerstown, co. Tipperary, a family of Cambrian origin, sprung originally from a common ancestor with the Hughes's, of Tregib, co. Carmarthen. (For full particulars of the descent, &c. see BURKE'S Landed Gentry, Supplement.)

Col. Hughes, as a descendant of the marriage in 1720, of Thomas Hughes, Esq. of Archerstown, with Elizabeth, dau. and coheir of Francis Annesley, Esq. of Ballysonan, son of the Hon. Capt. John Annesley, of Ballysonan, third son of the 1st Viscount Valentia, quarters the ANNESLEY arms, and bears an escutcheon of pretence, GORDON and TAYLOR, quarterly—in right of his wife ELIZA LUTHER, second dau. (and coheir with her sister Louisa Burt, widow of the Rev. Henry Stonhouse Vigor, Prebendary of Ladbury) of JOHN TAYLOR GORDON, Esq. Champion de Crespigny, Bart.

THIS family is descended from MAHEUS CHAMPION, Chevalier, who lived A.D. 1350, and whose great-grandson, HERBERT CHAMPION, was Seigneur de la Fleurière, near Vire, A.D. 1463. His direct male descendant, was Seigneur de Crespigny, in the parish of Vierville, near Bayeux, all in Normandy.

CLAUDE CHAMPION DE CRESPIGNY, who was compelled to leave France, at the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, came to England, where he was received with open arms by the Pierreponts, being allied to that noble family by marriage. His rank and principles gained him immediate protection from the State, and he was honoured with a Colonel's commission in the British army. He m. the dau. and heir of Pierre, de Vierville, Seigneur de Vierville, Lower Normandy. Their three sons were made free denizens of England, by Act of Parliament, passed A.D. 1689.

Claude, Augustus-James, Capt. R.N., a gallant officer, who served under R.N. d. Nelson and Collingwood, and 1813, on whom the latter took under his especial care. On board the H.M.S. Ocean, he saved no less than nine of his fellow subjects from a watery grave, at the imminent risk of his own life, for which he received a medal from the Royal Humane Society, and a service of plate from his ship's crew. His last gallant feat, was pulling into the very muzzles of the enemy's guns, whereby he saved five men who were near drowning by the Achilles Barge being sunk. His conduct on this last occasion was so truly noble, that he not only gained the admiration of the whole Flotilla, but the envy of the French commanding officer, who at last ordered his men to cease firing on him. GORDON OF CULVENNAN,
CO. GALWAY

ARTHUR NUGENT, ESQ.
CRANNA, CO. GALWAY.

THE REV^D PIERCE WILLIAM
STRAND HOUSE, YOUGHAL, C.

Gordon, of Culvinnan, co. Wigton.

WILLIAM GORDON, Esq. of Culvinnan, is the present representative of this branch of the house of Kenmure and Lochinvar, (for details of which, see BURKE's Landed Gentry.)

Arms.—Az., a bezant between three boars' heads erased, or, langued gu.

Crest.—A dexter naked arm, issuing out of a cloud, and grasping a flaming sword, all ppr.

Motto.—Above the crest, "DREAD GOD."

For upwards of two hundred years, the representatives of this family have been in the habit, as is general in Scotland, of carrying the arms without quarterings or impalement; and the only addition to the original coat, has been the bezant under the patent of 30th Nov. 1750, in favour of William Gordon, 5th Gordon of Culvinnan, an augmentation to mark the direct male descent from Sir Adam de Gordon, 1st Lord of Lochinvar, who acquired that Lordship in 1297. Sir Alexander, the sixth representative, carried under his patent of 6th Nov. 1771, the arms of his Lady, "by bordure or," and hence that addition for distinction upon the arms of the younger members of Sir Alexander's family, and of the brothers of the present representative. The arms of Mrs. Gordon's family (Hysop, of Lochend), co. Kirkcudbright, are: Arg. a stag, ppr. lodged under a holly tree growing out of the base, vert, a chief of the third, charged with three stars of the field.

Nugent, of Cranna, co. Galway.

ARTHUR NUGENT, Esq. of Cranna, eldest son and heir by Mari, his wife, only surviving dau. of Richard Gore, Esq. of Clotanny, King's County, of the late Arthur Anthony Nugent, of Cranna, second son of Anthony Lord Riverston, descends from the Palace branch of the noble family of Westmeath, and bears their Armorial Ensigns. Sir Gilbert de Nugent, the first of that name that went to Ireland, was descended in the male line from the House of Lorraine in France, and in the female line from the Earl of Mortimer, in England. Sir Gilbert accompanied Sir Hugh de Lacy into Ireland in 1172, and having m. his sister Rosa, had, as a portion with her, the Barony of Delvin, co. Westmeath, granted to him and his heirs for ever, as appears by the grant to which was affixed the seal of a Knight in complete armour, on horseback. (For full particulars see BURKE's Landed Gentry, Supplement.)

Drew, of Kilwinny, Mearus, Moeollup Castle, Drews- court, Strand House, etc. co. Cork.

THE REV. PIERCE WILLIAM DREW, of the Strand House, Youghal, co. Cork, bears a shield of twelve quarterings, as a descendant of the ancient line of Drew, of Kilwinny, Moeollup Castle, and Drewscourt. This family can boast of great antiquity and a noble origin, its "Stirp" (as Prince, in his Worthies of Devon, expresses himself,) having been Drogo or Dru, a noble Norman, son of Walter dé Ponz, and brother of Richard,* ancestor of the Cliffords, who accompanied William the Conqueror into England, and possessed seventy-three manors in Devonshire, at the time of Domesday Survey. (See Domesday Book, and Lyson's Britannia in Devon, part i. page 349, and 91.) His grandson Drogo de Teinge, was Lord of Tington Drew, in the reign of King Henry the Second. In Sir William Pole's Collections for a Description of Devon, page 244, he says "Tington Drew, both gave name and took name of the possessor thereof in King Henry the Second's time. Hee was called Drew or Drogo de Teinge." Risdon also, in his Survey of Devon, page 167, speaking of the change of the name from Drogo to Drew, says "the first parish that taketh name from Teign River, is Drews Teignton, honouring the name of its ancient landlord, Drogo de Teign, by time's continuance molified into Drew." And Dugdale, in his Antiquities of Warwickshire, page 609, says "Whitley being in the Conqueror's time possessed by Robert de Stadford with Wootton, and then certified to contain three hides, was held of him by Drôgo, (which name we now call Drew)." Camden derives the name thus, "Dru in Latine, Drugo or Drogo, subtle, as callidus in Latine, if it come from the Saxon or German; but if it come from the French, lively and lusty, (Nieotius)." (See Camden's Remains, page 87.) Also Prince, in his Worthies of Devon, remarks, "'Tis possible to carry this family higher yet, even up to Drogo de Teign, from whom is denominated a famous parish in this county, called at this day Drews Teignton, the town of Drew standing nigh the river Teign. Here lived Drogo de Teign, in King Henry the Second's days, (within a hundred years after the Conquest) which name we now call Drew, (as Dugdale tells us), from whom as 'the Stirp' this family proceeded." Prince also gives a copy of a very curious deed connected with the Drews, and dated 1464, 4th year of Edward IV. The object of it was to provide a fit chaplain to pray for the souls of Henry Drew, Agnes, Alice, and Joan his wives; and for the souls of John Drew, Esq. and Joan his wife, the parents of said Henry, and for the souls of Sir Richard Campernon, Sir Thomas Carew, Walter Reñnel, Robert Hill, son of Robert Hill, the Judge, and others. The ancient seats of this family were Drewscliffe, and Hayne, in the parish of Newton St. Cyres, where they flourished with great reputation from the Norman Conquest. Lineally from Drogo the Norman, son of Walter dé Ponz, descended

* Richard's son Walter was the first who called himself Dè Clifford, and Walter's daughter was "The Fair Rosamond."

WILLIAM DREW, Esq. of Drewscliffe and Hayne, in the parish of Newton St. Cyres, co. Devon, and of Sharpham, jure uxoris. He lived in 1398, RICHARD II. JOAN, dau. and heir of John Prideaux, Esq. of Orchardton, co. Devon, by Amy, his wife, eldest dau. and coheir of ROBERT FRENCH, Esq. of Horneford, by Matilda, his wife, dau. and heir of ROBERT WYNARD, Esq. of Harcomb.

Gyll, of Wyrardsbury, Bucks.

A succinct account of the family of Gyll having been inserted with the Plate XIII. in the first volume of this series of armorial engravings, we shall now only advert to the Royal License 17 Dec. 1844, which confirmed to this family the right of resuming the ancient orthography of Gyll instead of Gill, the usage of which has been interchangeable in various æras.

WILLIAM GYLL, Esq. of Wyrardsbury House, Bucks, Capt. 2nd Life Guards, m. the Lady Harriet Jane Laura Flemyng, only dau. and heir of Hamilton Flemyng, 9th and last Earl of Wigtoun, in Scotland, which entitles the issue of that union to bear the arms and quarterings of the noble and regally descended house of Flemyng. The College of Arms in Scotland, have also accorded to the family of Gyll, representatives of the Cadet branch of Flemyng, whence they deduce their origin, to bear and use the crest and motto of Flemyng, in addition to their own paternal crest; and Mr. Gyll, as eldest son of the family, had a service made to him which was duly returned to Chancery in Edinburgh, serving him "as nearest and lawful heir of line and of the body of Alexander Flemyng, son of John, 6th Lord Flemyng, and 1st Earl of Wigtoun." The pedigree of Flemyng has been considered, approved, and registered in the Lyon Office, with the evidence deducing their lineage, from the youngest son of the 1st Earl of Wigtoun, from which some extracts are made. The principal proof in sustentation of this descent, is a registered Scotch Bond, dated 31 July, 1654, in which James Flemyng is styled "sone lawful to umquhle Alexander Flemyng, brother-german to ane noble Earl, John, Earl of Wig toun." This James was subsequently ordained, and became Rector of Raymochy, in the county of Donegal, Ireland, as appears by the bishop's registry and by his original marriage settlements, dated 11 Sept. 1660, in which he is styled "only son of Alexander Flemyng, of the kingdom of Scotland, and grandson of the deceased Earl of Wigtoun." This gentleman d. in 1684, and was succeeded by his son, James Rector of Castlane, Kilderry, &c. in Ireland, and Chaplain to all the Lords Lieutenants of his time there, and was buried under the communion table at Dunmore, Kilkenny, in 1729. His son, Charles Ross Flemyng, on the demise, in 1747, of Charles, 7th Earl of Wigtoun, s. p. claimed the honours as 8th Earl of Wigtoun, and exercised all the prerogatives of his title, and at his decease, in 1769, his only son and heir, Hamilton Flemyng, followed as 9th and last Earl of that name. He d. in 1809, leaving an only child, m. to William Gyll, Esq. by virtue of which union, their issue are entitled to quarter the armorial ensigns of that noble house, although the honours are extinct, the Barony of Flemyng being a male fee.

Arms.—Quarterly. First and fourth, sa. two chevrons arg. each charged with three mullets of the field, in base, a cinquefoil of the second, on a canton or, a lion passant guardant gu. Second and third, lozengy, or, and vert, a lion rampant guardant gu.

M.D. Regius Professor of Physic, Professor of Anatomy, and Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge, only son of the late John Haviland, Esq. by Mary, his wife, dau. and coheir of S. Glover, Esq. descends from a junior branch of a very ancient family originally of Hauteville, in Normandy, which for many centuries held a distinguished rank in the island of Guernsey, where its members were Bailiffs and Jurats of the Royal Court, from the date of the earliest records. In a charter under the great seal, still extant, granted by Edward IV. in the first year of his reign, the king confirms the ancient constitution of the Island and adds many new privileges, in consideration of the gallantry displayed and the heavy losses sustained by the Sieur Thomas de Haviland, and others, gentlemen of Guernsey, and their followers, in recovering Mont Orgeuil Castle, in Jersey, from the French, by whom it had been held during the last six years of Henry the Sixth's reign. Lineally descended from this Thomas, was James de Haviland, Esq. Jurat of the Royal Court, in 1516, whose grandson, Christopher de Haviland, settled at Poole, in Dorsetshire early in the reign of Elizabeth, and was direct ancestor of the present JOHN HAVILAND, M.D. Regius Professor of Physic, at Cambridge. Brewster, of Suffolk.

THE family of Brewster is one of ancient origin; so far back as the reign of RICHARD II., John Brewster was presented to the Rectory of Godwick, in Norfolk, by the Prior of Westacre, and in a list of the gentry of Norfolk, returned to King HENRY VI. A.D. 1433, we find the name of Galfridus Brewster, The Norfolk family became allied to the distinguished houses of De Narburgh, Shuldham, Spelman, Gleane, &c.

With the county of Suffolk, the Brewsters were connected at a very remote period; John Brewster occurring as witness to a deed relating to land in the parish of Henstead, in the 48th EDWARD III., and Robert Brewster of Mutford, possessing lands in the same place prior to the reign of HENRY VI. Of these estates, William Brewster of Henstead, and Robert Brewster of Rushmere, died seised in the reign of EDWARD IV. In the earlier part of the 16th century, HUMPHREY BREWSTER purchased the manor and living of Wrentham, and in 1550, built the hall there, at which his descendants continued to reside until 1797. In 1810, the venerable mansion was taken down and the estate sold. The income of the proprietors of Wrentham was derived from lands in more than twenty parishes in Suffolk and Norfolk. In the former county, the Brewsters possessed leading influence, and in the Great Rebellion became active partisans of the parliament. Col. Humphrey Brewster raised and commanded a troop of horse, against the king, and Robert Brewster, Esq., the then possessor of Wrentham, sat as member for Dunwich in the Long Parliament.

Of this long descended line (which was allied to the ancient houses of Hervey, Edmonds, Snelling, Rolf, Corbet, Crofts, Malden, Crompton, Hayward, Brews, Claxton, Colt, &c.) the late male representative was WILLIAM BREWSTER, Esq. of Maidenhead, grandson of John Brewster, Esq. of Beccles, younger brother of Philip Brewster, Esq. of Wrentham Hall. (For full details see BURKE's Landed Gentry, Supplement.)

This family had many ramifications. One branch was settled at Barking, in Essex, and possessed the Manor of Withfield, in Ilford, and the Manor of Condovers, in West Tilbury. Another branch was established at Castle Hedingham, in Essex, and intermarried with the ancient and knightly families of Clopton, Cordel, Pooley, Seckford, Quarles, &c. From the Castle Hedingham branch derive WILLIAM BREWSTER, Esq. of Brighton, representative of the Brewsters of Bevington House, Essex, and also WILLIAM BREWSTER, Esq. of Black Notley Lodge, and JOSEPH NUNN BREWSTER, Esq. of Halstead Lodge, Essex, the only surviving sons of William Brewster, Esq. of White Notley Hall.—(See Landed Gentry.)

Bolton, of Wakefield and Tanfield, co. York.

It is presumed that this family and the Boltons of the county of Waterford in Ireland, are descended from the ancient family of De Bolton, represented about the year 1300, by John De Bolton, Bow-bearer of the Royal Forest of Bowland upon the borders of Lancashire and Yorkshire, who was (according to Sir William Dugdale, History of Warwickshire, first edition, page 87) the lineal representative of the Saxon Earls of Mercia.

Captain William Bolton, a scion of the Yorkshire family of Bolton, went over to Ireland in Cromwell's train, where he distinguished himself with his troop of dragoons, and took Faithlock Castle by storm, in 1649; he was mayor of Waterford, in 1667. His descendant and representative Charles Newport Bolton, Esq. resides at Brook Lodge, near Waterford: Thomas and Cornelius, brothers of Captain William Bolton, also went to Ireland, where the former was mayor of Waterford in 1671, and Cornelius was a captain in a regiment of foot. Of this family was Hugh Bolton, D.D. Dean of Waterford, and General Sir Robert Bolton, of Swerford Park, Oxfordshire, aide-de-camp to King George III., and equerry to George IV. James Hawkins, Lord Bishop of Raphoe, and several other distinguished individuals, were also members of the family.

In Yorkshire a branch of the family of Bolton seated for some generations at West Tanfield, near the city of Ripon, is represented by Thomas Bolton, (the son of Thomas, the son of George, the son of Benjamin,) who holds considerable paternal and other estates in that county, viz. at Wakefield, Stanley, Rigton, Beckwithshaw, Galphay, Nosterfield, and West Tanfield.

One of his ancestors by the female side, was Ralph Bourn, who lived to the patriarchal age of 113 years, and is said to have been the last surviving soldier, who had served in the army of Cromwell.

The said Thomas Bolton m. Hannah, youngest dau. of Richard Ambler, of Wakefield, son of George, whose father was John Ambler, sheriff of the city of York, jointly with Francis Bolton, in 1727. This John Ambler's dau. Mary m. William Shaw, whose son the Rev. George Shaw, was grandfather to the Right Hon. Charles Shaw Lefevre, M.P. Speaker of the House of Commons.

The said Richard Ambler m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Pyemont, of Lofthouse with Carlton. By this marriage the Rev. Thomas Ambler Bolton, descends from the Pyemonts.

From Alexander Pyemont, who lived about the time of Edward III., derived Richard Pyemont, to whom King Henry VIII. made a grant of property out of the spoils of the dissolved Priory of Nostel, near Wakefield: he d. in 1546, having bequeathed £10 per annum to be equally divided between the poor of Wakefield and South Kirby. Of the latter place Edmund Pyemont was vicar in the time of Queen Mary. John Pyemont of the same family, purchased Chester House, at Heath, d. in 1659, and was father of John, also of Heath, whose dau. Susannah, m. William Clifton, (from whom descended Sir Henry Wright Wilson, of Crofton), and whose son John, of Lofthouse, had an estate there in 1685, (bequeathed to him by his kinsman William Lyley, who was buried in front of the altar in Rothwell church, where his arms now remain in painted glass). His son John Pyemont, was father of John Pyemont, likewise of Lofthouse, who had six children, viz. John, George, Samuel, Elizabeth, Letitia and Annis. John d. unm. George became his heir: Samuel was rector of Linwood, in Lincolnshire; and Elizabeth, m. Richard Ambler, as stated above, and had issue, the Rev. George Ambler, Ann, Elizabeth, and Hannah, the wife of Thomas Bolton, whose only child is the Rev. Thomas Ambler Bolton, who m. Miss Chowler, of Wiseton, in the co. of Nottingham.

Arms of BOLTON.—Arg. on a chev. gu. three lions' passant guard or. (another arg.)

Bonar, of Camden.

ERNEST-AUGUSTUS BONAR, of Camden and Elmstead, chief of the second branches of the ancient family of Bonar of Keltie (vide Herald. Illustr. part 25), heir of line and representative of the Guthries of Hunkerton, heritable falconers to the crown in Fife, b. at Vienna, 1808, m. 1834, Rosalie-Henriette-Juliane de Wullerstorff-Urbain, dau. of Charles-Leopold de Wullerstorff-Urbain, a nobleman of Moravia, and of the Holy Roman Empire, Imperial Delegate in Italy, received in 1840, the Cross of the Sovereign Order of St. John of Jerusalem, as Chevalier de Justice, upon the verification of the required process of gentle blood on either side paternal and maternal.

Arms.—Quarterly. First and fourth, or, a lion rampant gules, for GUTHRIE. Second and third, or, a human heart regally crowned on a chief sable, three escallops or, for GRAHAME—over all his paternal coat of BONAR, argent a saltire azure, on a canton sable, three swords in pile, for the line of CAMDEN. On a separate shield the arms of the noble family de Wullerstorff-Urbain of the Holy Roman Empire, viz. per pale—dexter or, the eagle of the empire sable, semi displayed—sinister, sa. a bend or charged with three roses gu. barbed and seeded vert—the shield surmounted by the coronet and with the mantle; the whole borne for his wife in her own right.

Hussey, of Little Wyrley, Staffordshire.

THE present representative of this family is PHINEAS FOWKE HUSSEY, Esq., a Lieutenant in the 98th Regiment of Foot, b. Jan. 1822.

The manor of Little Wyrley, and a considerable estate in land and coal mines in the same, has been held by this family for many years, passing through four generations to the present possessor.

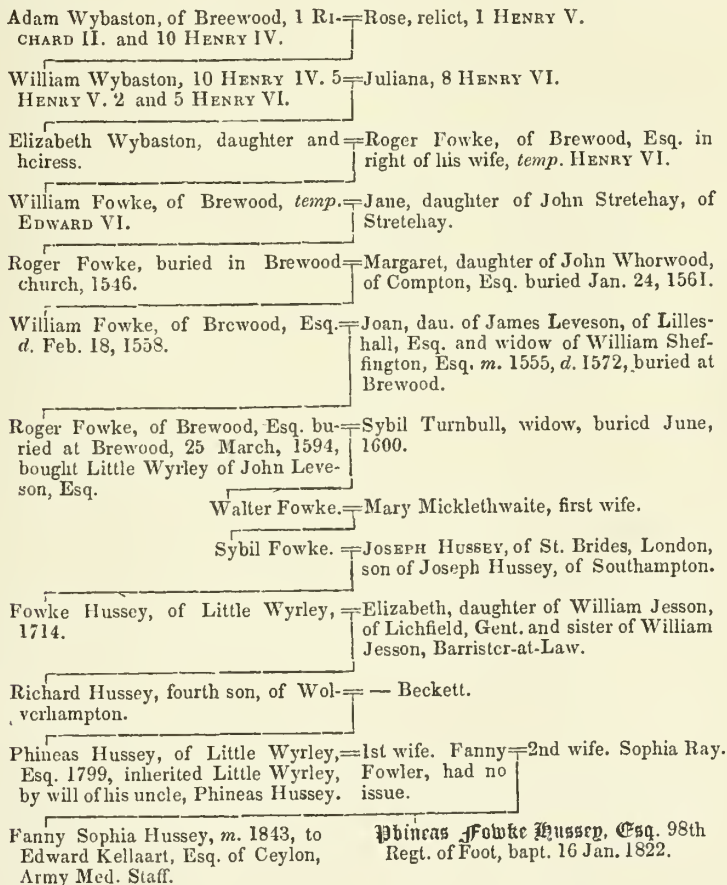

The Husseys became Lords of Little Wyrley, by the marriage of Joseph Hussey, of London, with Sybil, heiress of Walter Fowke, of Brewood. They are also joint Lords of the adjoining Manor of Norton, to the extent of one-third. Fowke Hussey (1714), also held 8-24ths of the extra-parochial manor or reputed manor of Ogle or Oggele-Hay, the whole of which was subsequently purchased by the late Phineas Hussey, at whose death it was sold to Charles F. Cotterill, Esq. of Walsall, and is now enclosed by Act of Parliament.

This family bears the same arms as the Husseys of Wiltshire, Essex, Dorsetshire, and Shropshire, viz :

Arms.—Barry of six, ermine and gules.

Crest.—On a wreath a boot sable, spurred or, topped ermine.

Sir William Hussey, Justice of the King's Bench temp. EDWARD IV. bore the same coat. He was father of John, Lord Hussey, and of Sir Giles Hussey, from whom descended Thos Hussey, of London, Esq., father of Thomas and Peter Hussey, living temp. CAR. II. From the similarity of the coats of arms, it may be presumed that these are the ancestors of Joseph Hussey, the first Lord of the Manor of Little Wyrley, of that name, as appears by the following pedigree.

Sawyer, of Heywood, co. Berks.

CHARLES SAWYER, Esq. of Heywood, eldest son of the late John Sawyer, Esq. of Heywood, J.P. and D.L., grandson of Anthony Sawyer, Esq. of Heywood, and Phœbe, his second wife, dau. and coheir of Richard Harcourt, Esq. of Wigsell, co. Sussex, M.P., descends from Sir Edmund Sawyer, Knt. b. in 1579, son of George Sawyer, and grandson of Edmund Sawyer, Esq. of Cawston, co. Norfolk, who purchased the manor of Heywood, in 1627. He bears with his paternal arm, numerous quarterings brought in by the marriage of his grandfather with the coheiress of Harcourt.

 "The passing moment's all we rest on Rest on—for what ? what do we here ?
 Or why regard the passing year ?
 Will time, amus'd with proverb'd lore,
 Add to our day one minute more ?
 A few days may—a few years must—
 Repose us in the silent dust.
 Then is it wise to damp our bliss ?
 Yes—all such reasonings are amiss,
 The voice of nature loudly cries,
 And many a message from the skies,
 That something in us never dies ;
 That on this frail, uncertain state
 Hang matters of eternal weight ;
 That future life, in worlds unknown
 Must take its hue from this alone ;
 Whether as heavenly glory bright
 Or dark as misery's woeful night :
 Since then, my honoured first of friends,
 On this poor being all depends
 Let us th' important now employ,
 And live as those that never die."—BURNS.
 Will God, I shall. Menzies.
